

Tenon tracker

They're paying today, but will they pay tomorrow?

Bad debts rarely occur without warning – there are many warning signs if you know where to look. The free Tenon tracker service was created by licensed Insolvency Practitioners to give you a clear and early indication of problems facing your clients. It's a powerful tool to keep a close eye on their ability to pay.

Constant monitoring

With unique levels of monitoring and reporting, Tenon tracker keeps an eye on clients in real time. It can show you when action is needed, before problems become wider public knowledge. That gives you time to monitor a clients account activity more closely – or even consider asking for regular management accounts.

The system covers individuals as well as all registered UK companies and it takes into account many different data sources to help build a bigger picture.

Your own individual reports

Tenon tracker can take large or small volumes of data from your current systems and look for matches with individuals or companies who may be facing problems. The system is extremely flexible and we make sure that the reports we produce for you are an excellent match with your business needs.

Developed by Insolvency Practitioners

Tenon tracker has been developed by licensed Insolvency Practitioners over several years. Extensive client feedback has resulted in a system offering a comprehensive range of reporting. Combined with early warning sources, Tenon tracker provides you with everything needed to monitor and manage your clients effectively.

Reports for your own sector

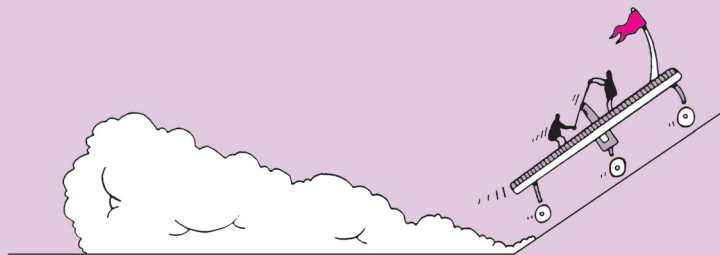

Tenon tracker is used by a wide range of businesses who want to make sure their clients are able to pay now and in the future. Existing clients include banks, accountants, financial directors, local councils, companies, solicitors and others.

Whatever your business sector, we can provide you with relevant reports on either businesses or individuals, from one key client through to your entire client database.

Remember, this service is free and it means you can very quickly find out if your current or potential clients are facing financial problems.

To arrange your own free reports, contact your local office.
